

IDS Emergency Management 2004

28th June - 16th July, 2004

IDS Emergency Management 2004 – ONLINE CONFERENCE

As a response to international terrorism and security related issues and the creation of Homeland Security and other measures to counter such threats in the United States, the IDS-Emergency Management online event is designed to be used as an information resource and is absolutely free-of-charge to do so. The conference will focus on significant developments in the emergency sector in such areas as contingency planning, counter terrorism, crisis management, ports & border security, business continuity and firefighting emergency.

The conference will assemble some of the most esteemed industry organizations, experts and practitioners who will be presenting information on an online platform. Editorial contributions will also be provided by leading industry associations. In addition, there will also be manufacturers and suppliers showcasing their services and solutions via digital exhibition stands.

The event will reflect on the North American emergency Industry and will go 'live' on the 28th June - 16th July, 2004. To register as an online delegate and to attend the event is free of charge.

Please visit the site which is on: www.idsemergencymanagement.com